DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Allen et al. (US Patent No. 6,506,605).

Claim 1:

Allen et al. (Allen) discloses a detector for a vehicle equipped with a heat exchanger 16, in which a catalyst coating 50 provided in the heat exchanger decomposes a chemical substance in air passing through the heat exchanger, the detector comprising:

- a. a sensor 62 that detects a remaining amount of the catalyst coating, and
- b. a control unit (fig. 12) that generates an alarm based upon detection of the sensor, wherein a position of detection of the sensor is determined according to a temperature characteristic of the heat exchanger (col. 10, lines 28-41; col. 13, lines 7-20).

Art Unit: 2636

Claim 2:

In Allen, the position of detection of the sensor is determined according to a flow rate of the air passing through the heat exchanger in addition to the temperature characteristic of the heat exchanger. Col. 10, lines 28-41; col. 13, lines 7-20.

Claim 3:

The heat exchanger 16 in Allen is a radiator, and a temperature distribution of a front surface of the radiator is used as the temperature characteristic of the heat exchanger. Col. 24, last paragraph.

Claim 5:

The position of detection of the sensor in Allen is determined so that detection occurs when an amount of decomposition of the chemical substance by an action of the catalyst coating becomes less than a value declared in an application for certification of decomposing performance. Col. 10, lines 28-41; col. 13, lines 7-20.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over by Allen et al. (US Patent No. 6,506,605).

Claim 4:

The heat exchanger16 in Allen is a radiator. Allen fails to discuss the time integral of temperature distributions of a front surface of the radiator is used as the temperature characteristic of the heat exchanger. However, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to derive the temperature from any method as desired so long as the method is proper and would provide accurate outcome.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
